A considerable portion of said land, included within said description, bordering on the said Yellow Mill Pond is now claimed by D. Fairchlid Wheeler. The disagreement arises on account of the disputed location of the wester-y boundary line of the said tract, which was deeded to the city. As I understand it, it is claimed by Mr. Wh er that the boundary line of land of the estate of George Cook extends much further to the north than was believed by the said conservators of the Henry B.
